SUMMARY OF MEETING:

Mr. Theiszmann and Mr. Naughton requested a meeting with Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) staff to discuss the development by Underwriters Laboratories, Inc. (UL) of a consensus indoor air quality standard and to encourage CPSC staff to participate in future meetings related to the development of such a standard.

Mr. Theiszmann and Mr. Naughton indicated that an organizational meeting would be held in the November/December 1996 timeframe for all interested parties for the purpose of discussing the possibility of developing an indoor air quality standard for various consumer products -- both residential and commercial. The scope of such a standard, the timeframe needed to develop such a standard, and other fundamental issues would be the focus of the organizational meeting. Mr. Theiszmann and Mr. Naughton stated that they have been meeting with various industry groups to evaluate the level of interest in developing an indoor air quality standard and to encourage participation by as broad-based a group as possible.

Mr. Theiszmann and Mr. Naughton indicated that CPSC staff would receive a follow-up letter of invitation regarding the organizational meeting.
